INSULL JAILED AT CHICAGO

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THE City of Hope, supplied with labor by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, and oil by the Missouri Pacific railroad, is undertaking to stamp out mosquitoes and malaria. By co-operating with the municipal and federal men our citizens have it in their power this summer to make this community more comfortable and healthy than ever before.

No Bill Returned by Grand Jury in Mellon Tax Probe

Federal Probers Refuse to Indict Hoover Treasury Head

CHARGE FROM 1931

Mellon Asserted, However, He Actually Overpaid on His Tax

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—(P)—A grand jury which heard evidence in the Andrew W. Mellon tax case refused to indict the former Secretary of the Treasury Tuesday.

The government presented charges that the internationally-known banker underpaid income taxes in 1931. Mellon himself in a statement last Friday disclosed that the government was seeking to collect approximately 2 million dollars from him.

He charged that the action was a move to discredit him and the administration he served under three presidents.

Mellon, 78, and one of the country's wealthiest men, said he actually overpaid his 1931 income tax.

Music Club Wins Stunt Night Prize

Young Business Men Second—Madrigal Club Is Third

"The Laughing Chorus," presented by Friday Music club, won first place in the third annual program held Monday night at the high school auditorium.

"Variety is the Spice of Life," entered by the Young Business Men's association, took second place. "The Old Grey Bonnet," entry of Madrigal club, received honorable mention.

The performance as a whole was said to have been the best of its kind ever presented here. A large crowd witnessed the program.

First place in school stunts went to the sophomore class, sponsored by Miss Ida Mae Cannon. The stunt was "Driven From Home." Second place went to the senior class in a "Womanless Wedding." Honorable mention was given to the Home Economics club in presenting "Life Wanted."

The program was presented over by C. H. Milburn, principal of the high school.

School night was sponsored by the high school orchestra and glee clubs with Mrs. John Wellborn in charge.

Army Has a Last Fling at Airmail

Flies Continent in 14 Hours—Private Lines Resume Mail Tuesday

NEWARK, N. J.—(P)—The Army Air Corps, completing its job of carrying the mail, carried out a flight from Oakland, Cal., to Newark airport late Monday in what it claimed to be record time for service over the Northern transcontinental route, 14 hours, eight minutes. The private air lines resume carrying the mail Tuesday.

It was a gesture very much like the one the private air lines made 11 weeks ago when the army took over the assignment. Then a Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. ship traversed the Southern route from Los Angeles to Newark in the elapsed time of 13 hours and five minutes.

The army set out Monday to make a record for the 2,732 miles and apparently made it. The route by way of Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Omaha, Des Moines, Chicago and Cleveland, is 27 miles more than the Southern track which goes by way of Albuquerque, Kansas City and Columbus.

The flight began at 12:20 a. m. Pacific time and was completed at 5:28 p. m. Eastern standard time.

Hickory and ash wood from the United States is used in nearly every country for tool handles, in sporting goods and in automobile manufacture.

Anti-Mosquito Campaign Launched

Malaria Control Program Is Under Way in This City

Dr. P. B. Carrigan Acts for City of Hope in ERA Campaign

CITIZENS TO HELP

Should Report Mosquito Infection—Puncture All Tin Cans

A malaria control campaign was launched in Hope Tuesday by the Emergency Relief Administration with Dr. P. B. Carrigan in charge.

The campaign will last until this fall. A crew of workmen have been appointed to make surveys of mosquito breeding places throughout the city.

Co-operating in this project is the Missouri Pacific railroad which is furnishing oil to the city free of charge.

Carrigan's Statement

Dr. Carrigan issued the following statement:

"The government has furnished men for this project through the ERA, and these were furnished through Major Stanford's office. W. E. Locke is the civil engineer in this work. We have an office in the building across from the postoffice, where the other ERA work is carried on and have a telephone No. 723 for communication in the office where all the business is transacted.

"We have three inspectors at work in the first, second and third zones and have five men to distribute the oil over the breeding ground of the mosquitoes. Mr. Locke is furnished with men to clean the ditches and rid the town of any standing water. These inspectors will go over town and look up breeding places of the mosquito and report very quickly to the office where a note of these places is made. The oiling men make their reports also and these men work until 3 o'clock and turn in their reports to our office daily. In this way we will be able to keep tab on all the work and know what each man is doing every day.

"We have made an inventory of what oil the railroad furnished the town of Hope last year and I have asked the railroad for more oil this year, and they were very glad to do so.

"The town of Hope appreciates very much the interest the Missouri Pacific railroad has taken in this work, as this oil costs them a considerable amount of money each year. They did ask, however, that if the ERA did not follow up this project until the season was over that the town would, which we have promised to do. I don't think there is any project that is more important from a health standpoint than his malaria control in Hope if it is carried on in the proper way. We are about two months behind with this work, as it should have begun in March. We are going to do all we possibly can to protect the people of our town against the malaria infection and want to ask you to help with this work. Especially do we want to impress upon the ladies of Hope the necessity of co-operating with us and these inspectors, and let them look over your premises carefully. If there is any complaint of any of these men, report it to our office and we will give the matter due consideration.

Should Call Office

"When you find mosquitoes around your premises please call us over the phone at once and we will send one or two inspectors to look over that area and they will try to find out where the mosquitoes are breeding. This was the main reason that we had a phone put in our office and we hope to keep in close touch with the families in town, and hope you will all feel free to make your complaints direct to us. One important thing is if mosquitoes get in your homes, try to eliminate them at once by raising the screens early in the morning, or fumigating with sulphur. We are glad to give you instructions on how to eliminate the mosquito at any time.

"One very important thing is to get rid of all standing water around your premises. Please do not let any pipes from your ice boxes run under the house or on the outside unless you catch the water in a bucket and empty this daily. There are a few homes in Hope with ponds of water standing under them and these are breeding places for enough mosquitoes to fill the town. Please do not keep cans without holes punched in them laying around the yards, but have these taken up every few days.

"The gutters on the roofs of your houses will be inspected by our men. All fish ponds will be thoroughly looked over and you will be given instructions in regard to the fish eating larvae. When there is a strong wind, mosquitoes can be blown a long way from the bottoms and while we have a number of variety of mosquitoes yet

Ozan-Graysonia Co. Moves Main Office to This City

E. B. Cantley to Make Home in Hope—Pioneer Arkansas Lumber Company Capitalized at $1,125,000

Headquarters for Ozan-Graysonia Lumber company, incorporated as a $1,125,000 concern, will be established here, it was announced Tuesday by E. B. Cantley, vice-president and general manager of the company.

The company's distributing plants, Hemphill County Lumber company at Hope; Howard County Lumber company at Nashville; Ozan-Graysonia Lumber company at Prescott; and the Ozan-Graysonia plant at Graysonia, all will be operated from the Hope office.

Asked by a representative of The Star as to why Hope was selected as the company's headquarters, Mr. Cantley replied: "Because Hope is the best town in Arkansas."

Another reason he gave was that Hope was more centrally located and would be able to serve the other units of the company in an expanding program to be launched within the next few weeks.

Mr. Cantley announced that a lumber yard would be erected at Arkadelphia. Following its completion, the Ozan-Graysonia concern will establish a distributing plant at Texarkana. The Arkadelphia and Texarkana units will be operated from the Hope office.

Besides the manufacturing and distributing of lumber through its retail houses, the Ozan-Graysonia concern does an extensive business in shipping yellow pine lumber to all parts of the United States.

The company has large land holdings in Hemphill, Pike, Howard, Clark and Nevada counties.

Mr. Cantley said he would move his family to Hope within the next few days.

Legislators Call for Big Corporation Salary Figures

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Roosevelt outlined to senate silver advocates Tuesday a two-way program involving nationalization of silver and a 25 per cent silver basis for the monetary system.

There was reason to believe that an understanding on this two-point program for rehabilitation of silver, at the discretion of the president, was nearing completion for legislative action.

U. S. Communications Plan

WASHINGTON—(P)—Creation of a federal communications system to regulate the telegraph, radio, wireless and cable systems, was advocated Tuesday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Meanwhile, Recovery Administrator Johnson said that while he may have to impose a code on the communications industry "I don't want to impose a code if I can get out of it."

To Probe Salaries

WASHINGTON—(P)—Business executives of 40 corporations may be called to Washington to tell why they would not reveal their salaries to the Trade Commission, as requested by the senate. This possibility developed Monday as the senate banking committee reported favorably a resolution appropriating $50,000 for the Trade Commission to use in acting against these companies.

About 900 other corporations answered the salary questionnaire several weeks ago. The answers showed that around 300 major executives each received $100,000 in salaries and bonuses in 1929, while others received compensation ranging up to more than $1,500,000.

Of the 40 corporations at which Monday's resolution was directed, four filed incomplete returns, 13 claimed they did not operate in interstate commerce and so were exempt, four denied the power of the commission to accept this information, and 19 simply failed to report.

May Go to Court

It was said the executives themselves might be called and given an opportunity to explain; that compliance might be sought through further correspondence, or court actions undertaken if necessary.

Among the companies which may be affected are General Electric, which gave partial data only on the ground that publication was unwarranted because it might arouse jealousy among officials, and the Burroughs Adding Machine Company, which said disclosure of specific salaries was "a violation of the privacy of each person affected."

The Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation contended it was exempt because it was a holding company not engaged in interstate commerce. Knoppers Gas and Coke Company declined for the same reasons, the basis of which, the commission said, is "neither clear nor in any way convincing."

General Aviation Corporation, American Can Company, General Motors Corporation and the Studebaker Corporation made point blank refusal.

American Can said the information sought was not relevant to any matter before Congress or the commission, and also did not reply to the commission's letter citing precedents. Studebaker Corporation asked for further data on the resolution, but did not reply after it was sent.

Timken Detroit Axle Company refused and General Refractories Company sent in a schedule, but asked its return for revision and then did not send a revised report.

United Drug Company filed an incomplete return. Companies claiming they were not in interstate commerce were American I. G. Chemical Corporation, Delaware and Hudson Company, Hudson Coal Company, M. A. Hanna Company, Newmont Mining Corporation, Ludwig Baumann & Co. Exchange Buffet Corporation, United Dry Docks, Inc., Fantepec Oil Company of Venezuela, Venezuelan Petroleum Company and Fenn Mex Fuel Company.

Others which refused or neglected to reply were Chrysler Corporation, Bendix Aviation Corporation, Columbian Carbon Company, Congress Cigar Company, Porto Rican American Tobacco Company.

Efforts to reduce membership in the annual and general conferences were rejected.

80 German Miners Suffocate in Fire

Men Are Sealed to Their Death in Blazing Potash Mine

MUELLHEIM, Baden, Germany.—(P)—The clong of steel plates closing over the mouth of the blazing Blaggingen potash mine formed a sad dirge Monday night for 80 miners who were given up as dead after being trapped in the inferno.

The shaft was completely sealed as all hope for the victims was abandoned after a vain 10-hour combat against the flames and deadly gases inside.

The fire, caused by an electrical short circuit, started late Monday morning but news of it was withheld until rescue work was suspended and authorities agreed there were no possible chance of reaching the victims.

The mine will be kept sealed at least 14 days when it is believed the fire will have run its course. A Nazi relief commission was en route here to arrange for the support of the bereaved families.

The foreman of a crew working at 2,600 feet underground and the only member of the group able to escape, died later of burns and the effects of carbon monoxide gas. Six members of rescue crews were overcome and were taken into a hospital in a serious condition.

Shortly before authorities decided to cover the shaft, an official spokesman said: "The shaft is still intact but we cannot tell for how long. No one can get down. The flames are getting stronger and the crews are sweating blood while waiting. We have considered sinking another shaft, but that would take too long."

"The mine would have burned out entirely by then. There seems to be no possibility of stopping the flames. Saving human lives is our first consideration, but I fear the only thing left to do is to seal it up."

The situation underground could not be determined because of the intense heat and fumes which beat the rescuers back.

Horror-stricken villagers clustered about the mine head while enormous clouds of smoke rose from the shaft. Oxygen was at first pumped into the shaft with the result that the gas ignited immediately.

Insull Tramps Through Tremendous Crowd From Depot to Courthouse

CHICAGO—(P)—Samuel Insull, a tragic figure, was placed under $200,000 bond by a federal judge Tuesday, and, unable to furnish it, was led away to jail.

Eyes brimming with tears, steps lagging, he trudged along silently between his guards to be locked up—a prisoner in the city where he had risen to greatness among national and utility potentates of the nation.

His 13,000 miles of harried flight was brought to an end in court here when the government demanded heavy bond on criminal charges.

His iron will that for decades had dominated a great financial realm stood steadfast throughout the ordeal of tramping through a gaping multitude at Union Station.

He climbed the long stairs to the street and sped away to the courthouse for arraignment on warrants charging fraudulent use of the mails and violation of the federal bankruptcy act.

Long Given Right to Ask Immunity

Supreme Court Holds With Senator That This Is Issue

WASHINGTON—(P)—The Supreme Court decided Monday to give Senator Huey Long an opportunity to show he is entitled to immunity from court proceedings based on speeches made in the senate.

The question came before the high court in an appeal by the Louisiana senator to set aside rulings by District of Columbia courts holding he must stand trial on a $500,000 bond brought against him by Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, retired.

The suit was based on a speech Long made in the senate in February, 1933, in which he assailed Ansell, who had acted as counsel for a senate committee investigating the election of Senator Overton of Louisiana, Long's colleague.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

The "Common People" Sit in Senate's Amen Corner . . . F. R. Knows His Forests . . . Variety Found in Roaming Around Capital . . . Swopes Go Near Foot of List.

By RODNEY DUTCHIER
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The most important, least formal bloc in the Senate is one you never hear about. It calls itself "The Common People."

The inner members are about a dozen Democrats of progressive (unge) whose seats are scattered in the "Amen Corner" at the left of the chamber.

The password, used especially when members walk up to one another after entering in answer to the vote buzzer, is: "How are the Common People voting on this?"

Charter members include Bone of Washington, Wheeler of Montana, Neeley of West Virginia, Russell of Georgia, Reynolds of North Carolina, Pope of Utah, and Bulow of South Dakota.

Mrs. Caraway of Arkansas, Costigan of Colorado, and Black of Alabama frequently associate themselves with the group.

Over on the Republican side the expression is unknown, but the "Common People" recognize as blood brethren Norris of Nebraska, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Shipstead of Minnesota, and Nye and Frazier of North Dakota. F. R. Knows His Forests

Nowhere in the government is Roosevelt admired more than in the Forestry Service. Wasn't it he who put hundreds of thousands of young men at forestry work through CCC camps?

The Forestry Service's favorite story about F. R. concerns a speech he once made to New York state forestry men from the porch of the gubernatorial mansion at Albany.

Extemporaneously, he showed a profound knowledge of forestry problems and advanced some interesting solutions. The audience was amazed at his grip and some hastened to congratulate him.

"Mike," asked Roosevelt of the attendant by his side, "what did I say to you when we came out here?"

"Well," answered Mike, "you said, 'Mike, what the hell am I going to talk about?'"

Seen around town: Frank Walker, boss of NEC, and Win Rieffer, the president's interpreting economist, huddling in the corner of a hotel lobby and discussing who will digress to get the durable goods industry stimulated . . . Black-derbed little John J. Raskob, hustling through the Capitol with a heavy pigskin bag, to call on Secretary Ed Halsey of the Senate. "Just a personal call from an old friend," Halsey explained later. . . Congressman Francis Shoemaker of Minnesota with a flaming red nose. Not another fight. Just sunburn contracted in Florida. . . Steve Early.

Marvin McIntyre, Marguerite Lehand, and Grace Tulley of the White House secretarial staff, comfortable in the Mayflower cocktail lounge. . . Dozens of guppies in the Department of Commerce aquarium, exhibited in the national Aquarium Society's prize contest. They're fish one inch long which try to devour their young as soon as they give birth to them. Mr. J. F. Erann won a blue ribbon for the prize guppies. . . The Gossages, strapping, handsome Edna and thin, sandy-haired Frank, camping at the National Labor Board. They represented hundreds of strikers in Harriman, Tenn., and after months of delay finally got the Blue Eagle taken from the Harriman Hosiery Co. for violation of NRA labor provisions. "I'm ashamed to be seen around these halls so much," Frank confessed. "Shucks," said Edna, "I feel almost like I owned the place."

Greatness in Eclipse

Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Swopes were at the foot of the list at a White House dinner the other night. The General Electric magnate was ranked just behind some newspaper men and Hans Kindler, the orchestra conductor, topped only Miss Lehand, Miss Nancy Cook, Mrs. Roosevelt's friend, and the presidential physician, Commander McIntyre. . . Cyrena van Gordon, the songstress, appearing at the White House, landed on her ear when the steps from an improvised platform collapsed. Mrs. Roosevelt and a military aide reached her as she rose and remarked: "I don't mind an audience at my feet—but I don't like being at the feet of an audience."

Britain Declares Japan Trade War

Empire Moves to Bar Oriental Textiles From Her Colonies

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—An open trade war with Japan was declared Monday as the British government announced an "intensification" of commerce with the empire.

The House of Commons applauded as Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, outlined concisely his government's decision to take whatever action "the government believes necessary" to halt Japanese competition with British goods, particularly textiles, within the British empire.

He hinted that the "battle" might be waged in other parts of the world as well. In the debate following Mr. Runciman's announcement, J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, replied to attacks by Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader, by reiterating the government's empire free trade policy and declaring that every effort will be made to increase the exchange of products among dominions and colonies.

Mr. Thomas sharply attacked American economic defense policies. Sir Herbert had praised Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for their efforts "to break down world tariff barriers."

"Yes, I have heard about Secretary Hull and other statesmen making such efforts," Thomas rejoined, "but this does not prevent them from going ahead with tariff armaments."

Emphasizing that Britain is ready to receive any suggestions for a trade peace from Japan, Mr. Runciman nevertheless declared that Tokyo's 12 months' delay in meeting British requests for an adjustment of Nippi's "rapidly expanding" textile trade necessitated the steps enunciated Monday.

He said restrictions on Japan's exports to crown colonies would start Wednesday, indicated that new duties and other limitations would be placed on Japanese exports to the British Isles, a hinted strongly that the dominions will be urged to take similar action.

A new British trade offensive, world wide, against Japan, will then follow, Runciman implied.

Sir Herbert, former holder of several cabinet posts, criticized the government's treatment of the dominions, saying that England actually was injuring empire trade by "economic na-tionism."

Thomas, in reply, quoted figures purporting to show increase in the interchange within the empire and said trade was expanding.

Liberal members under Sir Herbert had demanded a full explanation of the asserted disinclination of the government to permit free entry of New Zealand products to England on an exchange basis.

The Liberal leader, after praising Secretary Hull personally, referred to "the causes of the World Economic Conference failure last summer as: First, the United States' failure to agree on stabilization of currencies; second, our government's disinclination to enter international agreements for elimination of trade barriers."

He then declared, "the deliberate inflation of currency to further international trade is unfair and illogical."

Mr. Runciman made his announcement regarding use of import quotas against Japanese competition during a review of British trade negotiations with the Japanese.

"The British government," he said, "has come to the conclusion it would no longer be justified in postponing such action as is open with a view to safeguarding the trade of this country."

"As a result, I told the Japanese ambassador May 1 that in the circumstances the British government is obliged to resume the liberty to take such action as is deemed necessary to safeguard our commercial interests, with the assurance that it would be taken in no unfriendly spirit."

"Colonies and protectorates will be asked to introduce import quotas which, except in the case of West Africa, will apply to foreign imports of cotton and rayon goods with a view to reinstating that country in the position in those markets which it held before the present abnormal period. The basis of these quotas will be the approximate averages of the imports for 1927-1931."

After Taking Cardui
"I have suffered a great deal from cramping," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Sr., of Waco, Texas. "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui, thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Smiles vs. Tears
Would we could write a song that would beguile
All hearts of pain and leave a lasting smile;
But smiles are lovely, only when they grow
Twink pain and heartaches, planted row by row.
"Cry not!" "Grieve not!" are words we never say.
Too real is anguish to be soothed that way.
We whisper only, "wait a little while,
Some day shall grief make lovelier your smile.
Some day you shall remember and be glad
To count the hours of happiness you've had;
But all the brave and gentle souls you know
Have planted smiles and heartaches row by row."—Selected.

The John Cain Chapter, D. A. R., will hold their May meeting with a 1 o'clock luncheon, Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Frank R. Johnson, North Louisiana street, with Mrs. A. L. Black as joint hostess. Mrs. R. M. Bryant will lead the topic, "Patriotic Education Embodying National Defense."

DONNA of the BIG TOP by BEULAH POYNTER

BEGIN HERE TODAY Madeline so. It's not because she's a single but because she's no good.

"If I thought that, I'd fire her quick as shooting. She was darned decent about going on with the act alone and—shucks, are you sure she and Trafford—"

"Why do you suppose he's gone to places the way he has? He was crazy about Madeline but he knew enough to keep his distance if she hadn't led him on. If you don't believe me, ask anyone in the show. And watch her with Con!"

"I've seen them together but—I'll look into this!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

NED TRAFFORD was surly and belligerent. Irritable without provocation. Twice Renfro had caught him under the influence of liquor and threatened him with "notice" if he ever caught him drinking again. But Trafford avoided Madeline and, as the days sped by, her fear of him lessened and gradually died.

Renfro had watched Madeline performing on the trapeze alone and, since business was bad and there was a prospect of Donna's return, he had decided to let Madeline remain in the show as a "single." One Gabriel sister did not make a feature act, but the cut in salary helped a little.

Madeline knew Con's interest in her was due to the fact that he could get news of Donna through her, but his very indifference only spurred Madeline's determination to win him.

During every performance she watched the animal trainer put his "cats" through their paces and she never failed to compliment him on his daring when he left the arena, his white silk shirt clinging to his body and beads of perspiration about his white lips.

"There isn't an act in the world that can equal it, Con!" she would exclaim ecstatically.

He was flattered by these attentions. The sting of Donna's reputation still rankled, though he loved her with all the fervor of his Latin temperament. Con was perfectly aware of Madeline's love for him, and as was every one else in the circus.

NOW then he invited her to dinner at a hotel or restaurant as a change from the fare in the mess tent.

A month went by, then six weeks. The heat became intense. Under the tents the air was heavy, almost intolerable. The poor animals, forced to stay in small quarters, suffered and snarled and roared and spit.

Under the glare of a thousand blazing lights the performers tried to concentrate on their numbers, to forget their discomfort and put forth their best efforts, but the acts moved slowly and without pep. A grizzly bear sickened and died. Renfro tore his hair and wailed that there was a jinx on the show and they might as well close.

His wife, who had heard the same wail many times, for once listened to him. Then she said, "Well, why don't you stop bedding and get rid of the jinx?"

"I wish to God I could! If you can tell me who it is I'll fire him quick enough."

"It's not a 'him.' It's that Madeline Gabriel."

"Oh, you've got it in for Madeline because she's alone. She's all right."

"Maybe she is, but she's a trouble-maker. Look at the way she's trailing Con! Look how she strung along Ned Trafford—"

"What?"

"I'm not a gossip, but I'm not as blind as you are and I've seen a few things. I'd be glad to see
